YouTube

8% of budget · AED 18/day at full tier · the second opinion

Both concepts here are the TikTok cuts, re-delivered. That is the point: a result that holds on two different algorithms is a finding, and one that holds on a single platform is a quirk. This is the cheapest way to make the campaign's central test trustworthy.

YouTube is also the only channel here where the ad keeps earning views after the budget stops.

Where to build it

Google Ads → Campaigns → New campaign → Leads → Video → Efficient reach, or Drive conversions if the pixel already has data.

You need a Google Ads account, and the videos must be uploaded to a YouTube channel first (they can be unlisted).

Turn off Display partners. Same logic as Pangle on TikTok — cheap impressions on low-intent inventory that flatter the CPM and hurt lead quality.

The ads

Shorts · `shorts-01-scrolling-the-spreadsheet.mp4` · `shorts-02-the-11pm-lead.mp4`

1080×1920, 32.6s and 31.9s, both narrated with captions burned in. Upload both to the channel, then reference them in the campaign.

In-feed frames · `infeed-01-tuesday-test.png` · `infeed-02-62-clinics.png`

1920×1080. These serve as in-feed video ad thumbnails and as the channel's custom thumbnails.

The thumbnail and the video must make one promise. A thumbnail that over-claims buys the view and loses the watch time — and watch time is what decides whether YouTube keeps serving you. These two are written to match their videos exactly; keep it that way if you edit either.

The comparison that matters

Run the identical A-versus-B test here as on TikTok and compare the ranking, not the absolute numbers:

- Same concept wins on both → you have a real finding about this market's register. Apply it to the landing page and the sales script.

- Different concepts win → the difference is the platform, not the message. Keep both, and stop trying to pick a universal winner.

Mistakes specific to this platform

- Display partners left on. Named for the same reason as Pangle.
- Mismatched thumbnail. Buys views, loses watch time, kills delivery.
- Layering audience segments too early. Give the algorithm two weeks broad before narrowing anything.
- Judging on views. Views are cheap here. Judge on cost per qualified lead like everywhere else.
- Forgetting the videos keep working. Leave them up when the campaign ends; they cost nothing to host and continue to earn organic views.

Before this ad can run at all

Five things are missing site-side and no ad on any platform works without the first two:

1. Conversion tracking. This platform's pixel, plus GA4. Without it the campaign optimises on clicks, which is the metric least connected to money.
2. The landing page. `/leak-test` — one field (website URL + email), wired to the CRM. The ads all point here.
3. Ad account + domain verification. Meta's domain verification is the longest-lead item of the whole launch; start it first.
4. Currency decided. The site prices in USD, the internal docs in EUR, the strategy in AED. Pick AED for this market and make ads, page and checkout agree.
5. Fulfilment staffed. The offer is a free report inside 24 working hours. This campaign sells speed of response to people you have just taught to measure speed of response. If nobody is assigned to produce the reports, run a smaller budget rather than a slower promise.

Two rules that apply everywhere

Never edit a running ad that is performing. Editing resets the learning phase and throws away everything the algorithm knows. Launch the new version alongside it and let the old one die. Pausing is free; editing is not.

Never sum conversions across platforms. Meta's 7-day window and LinkedIn's 30-day window measure different things and both will claim the same lead. Report side by side and reconcile against the CRM monthly. When they disagree, the CRM wins.

Kyntlo creative batch 2026-10. Performance bands are expected ranges for UAE targeting, not commitments — recalibrate against your own first thirty days.
